THE merchant who undertakes to lead the public to believe things about his store and his goods that the store and goods don't justify, sets a trap for his own destruction.

We believe everything we tell you—we carry out every promise we make you—we expect you to look on this store as a sort of co-operative corporation—that's here for your benefit as much as ours.

Manhattan's last run for the pennant was cut short yesterday by the Champion Brownies, in one of the prettiest games of the season, and the lead held by the Colts was handed over to the fast Dailies from Fulton. The crowd was enthusiastic and a wild burst of applause greeted the Brownies when they made the winning run in the last inning, with two men out. It was the finest finish of the year, and the people felt that that game alone was worth the price of admission to the doubleheader. It was good they thought so, for the second game between the Barton Heights team and Richmond was so one-sided, and Richmond was so much outclassed that the game resolved itself into something like a back lot affair. There is a probability of the Richmond's going out of the league, as a thorough reorganization of the club is demanded by the public, as well as the other managers. Manchester seems to have won the game in the ninth. Two men had perished for the Brownies, when Tucker saved at first. McEvoy singled, and the two men were on bases, when Knoch, who had played fine game, hit safe, securing both men on a lead throw in. Then it was all over, with a wild and hilarious
